

CHURCH FORGETS DUTY TO WEALTH

Rich Neglected as Not Within Reach.

DR. LUCIEN CLARK'S VIEWS

Possessors of Money Apt to Forget the Church—Better Interests Satisfied.

The views of Bishop Henry Y. Satterlee on the subject of the forgetfulness of duty and surrender to folly among certain sections of the "idle rich," as published in The Times yesterday, have attracted wide attention. The subject is one that has come to occupy, in large measure the public mind.

Dr. Lucien Clark, pastor of Hamline Methodist Episcopal Church, has decided views on this question, the products of a ministerial career extending over more than forty years spent in a number of churches in a number of different cities of the country.

Church Is for All.

"The benefits of religion—of Christianity," said Dr. Clark, "were designed neither for the poor nor for the rich, as separate classes, but for all God's people. I have no patience with the theory that seeks to build churches for special classes, though in some cases, where the conditions of the people living in a neighborhood make it imperative, such concessions to circumstances may be both wise and proper."

"But the ideal church is that in which the rich and poor meet together—whence their common supplications ascend above. I have been pastor of such churches, one of which I remember especially, of which a great number of mill operatives and a small number of mill owners were members. Whatever distinctions existed outside, there was none in the church; for myself I looked upon all alike and treated all alike."

"To make distinctions of classes in spreading the gospel of salvation is unrighteous and un-Christian, opposed to both the letter and the spirit of God's word. I am sometimes afraid the church forgets its duty in the matter, and in many cases fails to extend its arms to the rich, in the belief they cannot be reached. Such belief has its origin in one of the very facts that make the evangelization of the rich largely necessary—the self-contempt with which wealth and the fond delusion held by many rich persons that they have no need of the eternal comfort the church offers. The church observes this attitude and simply gives up these members of society as a bad job."

"So much for the attitude of the church toward the rich; perhaps there is equal cause for criticism or sorrow in the attitude of the rich toward the church."

Rich Forget the Church.

"Wealth is neither moral nor immoral in itself; its good or bad effects upon its possessor depends upon the manner in which it is used. It is undoubtedly true, though, that its influence is too often stultifying of the better instincts. He who has no need to the great dependence of creature comforts becomes steeped in selfishness, without heed either of his own spiritual welfare or that of the great world of his fellows. He abandons himself wholly to the pursuit of ambition or the increase of his wealth or the enjoyment of senseless pleasures. He thinks of himself merely or of the little circle in which he revolves."

"For this reason I believe the rich man to be harder to reach by the agencies of the church than the man of lesser means, who is brought to a more intimate understanding of the great dependence he must place in God. But, certainly, the church should not suspend or decrease for any such reason as this, its efforts to bring those who possess much within the radius of its influence."

The Faults of the Wealthy.

"There are some faults that belong especially to the richer classes. They include the practice of vulgar and ostentatious display, total abandonment to worldly pleasures, a selfish indifference to their own responsibilities—to the discharge of the stewardship with which they are intrusted. The fact is few of us are fit to be the possessors of large wealth, and there is little reason for surprise that many of those we see around us fail to stand the test. We might not do better or as well were positions reversed."

"In addition to this the rich contribute to the world's supply a full share of

Witness Against Jett Killed From Ambush

Riley Coldiron Falls a Victim in Kentucky
Feud—Was a Member of the Famous Cockrill Faction.

JACKSON, Ky., May 16.—News has reached here of the assassination of Riley Coldiron, in Perry county.

Coldiron, with Capt. John Patrick, was the principal witness against Curtis Jett and Tom White, convicted of the murder of James Cockrill, in Jackson. His home was not far from that of Abc Callahan, a brother to Sheriff Ed Callahan, who is a Hargis follower. The Callahans and Coldiron were not friends.

Coldiron was returning Saturday night from a store on Troublesome Creek, five miles from his home, when he was shot from ambush. Friends of the Callahans say the latter was not in the vicinity of the place where the tragedy occurred. Coldiron was a member of the Cockrill faction, opposed by the Hargis and Callahan feudists.

Trial Postponed.

The trial of the $100,000 damage suit against Judge James Hargis, Sheriff Callahan, B. F. French, and Alexander Hargis, brought by Mrs. Abelia Marcum, charging them with the murder of her husband, James Marcum, at Jackson, last June, has been postponed until the September term of the court on a plea of the defense that John F. Hager,

Riches Not Always Harmful.

"I do not mean to be understood as saying that riches always bring these evil results in their train. On the contrary I have known many exemplary, charitable, and high-minded men and women who received their wealth as a special trust, and used it for the glory of God and the uplifting of man. To them and to those who came within their influence wealth was a blessing."

"It is quite improbable that the rich acquire these habits of selfishness who influence at all realize how little and how insecure are the foundations of their taking advantage of their opportunities. Wrapped up in themselves and their own narrow interests, they fail to see or understand the great world that surrounds them. The men are probably good husbands and fathers, and the women good wives and mothers, and they are actually witness misery they would not be untouched; if they could be made to understand for a moment their relation to and dependence upon God, they might be brought within His influence."

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE VIEW OF SOUL AND BODY

The services in the two Christian Science churches yesterday were instructive and helpful. The subject was "Soul and Body," from the text in Psalms, "My soul shall be joyful in the Lord; it shall rejoice in His salvation." According to Christian Science views, there are two meanings of the word "soul," as used in the Bible. One means God, the Infinite Life or Mind, and the other meaning is sense. As quoted principally in yesterday's sermon, the word was brought out and explained as the creative, governing principle of man. God, divine truth, life and love, the only power, intelligence, and love of the universe; and body or mind is the universal manifestation of this source recognized as spiritual sense, is purified of all materialism, all error, pride, and selfishness, and awakes in His likeness. God is the real and eternal; error, the unreal and temporal.

Mrs. Marcum has the support of the Cockrill faction. Although she was left with a large family and only a moderate fortune she says she will spend the entire estate to avenge the murder.

Opposes His Nephew.
Her father, Capt. Henry Hearst, postmaster at Jackson, is wealthy, and her brother Henry Hearst, is also lending support to her, as is Samuel Jett, a wealthy distiller, who, although he is an uncle of Curtis Jett, one of the assassins of Marcum, is aiding in the prosecution, because another of his nephews, James Cockrill, like Marcum, was a victim of Curtis Jett's revolver.

Jett is in jail at Louisville and this week he will be taken to the penitentiary to begin his life sentence for Marcum's murder. In the meantime, the attorneys for the prosecution will fight his appeal in the Cockrill case, in which he was sentenced to be hanged, and they say if the higher court affirms the findings of Judge Asbourne's court, Jett will be taken from the penitentiary and hanged.

WANTS COMPTROLLER TO SAY "NO" IN WRITING

Auditor Wishes Adverse Opinion on Request to Use "Fund" for Sick Police.

The Comptroller of the Treasury is to decide whether or not the "police-men's fund" can be used to help a policeman who has become disabled, not by injury, but by sickness. "In the actual discharge of his duty," Major Sylvester wants such aid extended to Detective W. R. Reynolds, who is suffering from a stroke of paralysis. Auditor Garrison desires an opinion on the point from the Comptroller, on the ground that such payment would lead to the custom of the fund being used to help all sick policemen regardless of whether they are sick as the result of injuries incurred in the line of duty.

Auditor Garrison claims that the Comptroller has already rendered a verbal opinion to the effect that the fund cannot be used as the chief desires. Mr. Garrison, however, wants a written opinion setting forth exactly what must be done.

APARTMENT HOUSE FOR LE DROIT PARK

H. C. Ewald will erect from plans prepared by Architect A. Goerner, a three-story apartment house on Fourth Street, near T. Le Droit Park. The dimensions of the building will be 25x100. The front will be of light brick and Indiana limestone trimming. It will contain six apartments of five rooms and bath each, each flat having its individual porch, of cement. They will have hot-water heat, tiled baths, and all modern conveniences. The basement will be located well above the ground, and fitted up suitable for a doctor's office. The cost of the improvement will be $12,000.

DR. PARSON RAPS THE PRESIDENT

Says Man and Wife Should Attend Same Church.

MAINTAINING FAMILY UNIT

Twenty-fifth Anniversary of the Church of the Reformation Celebrated by Special Exercises.

"Notwithstanding the example of the President of the United States, a man and wife had better go to one church," said Dr. William E. Parson, of the Church of the Reformation, in the course of a sermon yesterday, administered a mild reproof to the head of the nation and his family for their manner of observing their religious duties.

Dr. Parson expressed the opinion that the members of one family should attend the same church, even though the doctrines of that church were contrary to their beliefs. The maintenance of the family unit, he contended, should take precedence over the selection of a place of worship, and would lead to more general peace.

The criticism made by Dr. Parson was based on the fact that the President attends Grace Reformed Church, while Mrs. Roosevelt is a communicant at St. John's Episcopal Church. The children attend service at either church.

Union in Worship.

Although not directly referring to the first family of the land, Dr. Parson intimated that it would not be well for the members of his congregation to follow the example set by the President. During his ministry, he said, he had advised men and women not to join his church, when he knew that their wives or husbands were followers of other creeds. It would be better for one of the two to join the church of the other, or, if possible, for both to join the same church.

Twenty-fifth Anniversary.

Yesterday was the twenty-fifth anniversary of the organization of the church and the pastorate of Dr. Parson, and the event was celebrated with special services. In his sermon Dr. Parson reviewed some of the things accomplished by the church, and referred to the fact that during its entire existence the church had never been involved in quarrels such as frequently occur among congregations.

"In twenty-five years we have not had a church fight. That is saying much, when we remember that there is about as much human nature in a church member in twenty-four hours as in any other member of the family of Adam. I do not desire to do any boasting, merely to say 'The Lord Hath done great things for us.'"

In the evening the services were under the direction of the various societies connected with the church. Addresses were made by P. V. De Graw for the trustees, Mr. Parson for the council, Mr. Slater for the Sunday school, Mr. Unger for the Young People's Society, Mrs. Sutherland for the Missionary Society, and Mrs. Piker for the Ladies' Aid Society.

The congregation will hold a reception and meeting tonight.

FIGHT OPEN SHOP, SAYS MORRISON

His Advice to Labor Unions of New York.

MANUFACTURERS' CIRCULARS

Secretary of Federation Declares Members Should Never Work With Non-Union Men.

NEW YORK, May 16.—Secretary Frank Morrison, of the American Federation of Labor, is in town, and at the meeting of the Central Federated Union made a speech warning the unions against the open shop movement, though he did not mention the open shop by name.

"The National Manufacturers' Association organized by Mr. Parry," Morrison said, "is flooding the country with circulars against the unions and befogging the situation. There is only one thing to be done, and that is to keep up the fight for the employment always of only union men."

"Union men should not work with non-union men. The American Federation of Labor stands for the employment of union men and the recognition of the union, not in the sense that some of the employers lately take it, but in the old sense of employing none but union men."

Morrison said that the unions were doing themselves harm by fighting among themselves. The public should not know that there was a ripple of discontent in the labor movement.

"The American Federation of Labor on the 24th of this month," he said, "will effect an amalgamation with the American Labor Union, which has been opposed to it for a number of years. This is the way to do it."

STAGE COACH ROBBERY IN THE ADIRONDACKS

SARATOGA, May 16.—Driver Wilcox, of the Adirondack stage line, which operates between North Creek, the terminus of the Adirondack division of the Delaware and Hudson Railroad
